Foreign Relations for the Islamic State During the Prophet Era

Asst .Prof. Dr. Muhsin Miskil Fehed

Center of Arabic Gulf Studies / University of Basrah

Abstract

This research studies relations of the Islamic state with the great powers during the era of prophet Mohammad (PBUH) . To know the political and military Variables during this period , we should first define the kinds of relation that were there before the start of the prophet`s mission . Those relations were characterized by struggle and wars between Persia and Bezentia to expand and control the areas of influence . Abyssenia entered as a pole in this struggle beside Bezentia after converting to Christianity . After start of the prophet`s mission , the political map changed because Bezentia defeated Persia and Abyssenia was neutralized by the diplomatic means that the Moslem emigrants used there .

The Bezention state was left suffering in its struggle with the Young Islamic state .
